We Seem To Fly
Canaries Have Value
The Texas Governor
Remember Fokker

— BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

HEN this was written, at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, two fine American army officers, Maitland and Hegenberger, had finished a hop from Oakland, Calif., to eight, 2,400 miles, in 26 hours, and brave young Commander Byrd, with three companions, had passed Cape Horn two hours earlier.

His country really flies when you give it a chance. We have the many that know how, hundreds of thousands eager to learn. If the government will supply them with the flying and fighting machines they need never fear anything in the world.

RS. FREEMAN, the unhappy mother whose husband was killed in an automobile, killed herself and her children when told they must go to an orphan asylum. "Better dead without a mother," said the poor man, and went with them.

He was careful to protect two tiny birds, putting them where the gas could not reach them. She knew that canary birds have a value, body would buy them and treat kindly. She knew that children have no value; that she could not be that strangers in an asylum would treat kindly.

KITTING New York City with a party of distinguished Texans, combed and looked up to, literally in other ways, Governor Mood: "I hear that New York City is the American factory town, turning five and half billion dollars of products a year." Governor was too polite to mention the fact any state he has been on his way, including New York, could be away in Texas and not attract attention. Texas alone, intentionally cultivated, could feed every one of the 1,000,000,000 human beings on Earth and have room left to raise cattle.

HEN rejoicing over the Honolulu 96, leaving $65,000. His best, forget Fokker, who made the plane that took Byrd, first of all beings, over the North Pole, the plane not carrying Byrd and company to Europe.

The government should endow Fokker generously, give him whatever he wants, make sure that he never leaves it over him gratitude. He also owes gratitude to other good plane builders, including Ryan of Lindbergh plane, and Henry Ford, has put into airplanes millions he does not expect to get out, fortunately doesn't need government endowment. He keeps gold, always having at least three hundred and fifty to four hundred dollars in the bank.

HILE Byrd was flying east across the Atlantic and two young arms were across the Pacific, at 110 miles an hour, our interesting visitor, the Rev. Potts-Winnick, was leaving the behind, passing through various stations at the rate of 65,000 miles an hour.

WE, tiny creatures, when removed from service on this earth, make such journeys? That would be more rest than going into the ground, by there.

PROFESSIONAL beggar dies at 96, leaving $65,000. His heirs and men moralize on the beggar's fortune. It wasn't very big, but he had worked 40 of his 96 years for wages, saved part, investing and saving it, his heirs would have had to quarrel for it.

COLUMBUS, June 30.—Eight are dead in Ohio today, the result of a heat wave that has blistered the state. Prostrations were reported in Cleveland and other Ohio cities.

Seven persons were drowned as thousands sought relief from the torrid heat.

FARMERS REJOICE OVER HEAT WAVE

MARION COUNTY farmers are rejoicing in the sudden change in temperature. They can "almost see the crop grow" in the hot sun. After experiencing cold and rainy weather for several weeks and getting their corn planted later than usual, many farmers claim that the hot dry weather now will give the corn the needed boost and save the crop.

Corn and wheat are growing rapidly, although a survey shows that the oats crop will probably not be quite as large as that of last year in this county.

There are pools and bathing beaches. Soda fountains did a hand-to-hand business and men were swamped with extra calls.

In Columbus, Donald Holly, 22, was drowned as he attempted to swim to save Floyd Brumley, 15, a swimming companion, as they swim in Olentangy River.

In Zanesville three young girls lost their lives at Riverview bathing beach when they waded into deep water. The victims were Gertrude Hartman, 15; Louise Haines, 16, and Goldie Conkle, 14, all of Zanesville.

Richard Huston, 19, of Lancaster, drowned at Buckeye Lake, near Columbus, when he dived from a boat and was seized with cramps.

FIRST HEAT VICTIM IN CLEVELAND

CLEVELAND, June 30.—Cleveland's first heat victim this year was Alex Pleit, 39, who died at St. Alexius Hospital early today after being overcome at his home last night. Three persons were prostrated during the grand parade of the National Grotto Wednesday, when it was estimated that 200,000 persons were wedged into the streets along the line of march.

Peak temperature here Wednesday was 93.

SEARCH LAKE ERIE FOR BODY OF YOUTH

SANDUSKY, June 30.—Searchers were on Lake Erie off Ceylon, just east of here today, in quest of the body of John Hoff, 22, of Berlin Heights, who drowned last night while seeking relief from the heat.

YOUTH, 16, DROWNED IN MAUMEE RIVER

TOLEDO, June 30.—Earl Price, 16, was drowned in the Maumee River while swimming here today. It was the first swimming fatality of the season.

Country Roads

With no apparent relief in sight, Marion was doomed to broil under the intense rays of Old King Sol, again today, after scorching under the first real heat wave of the summer, yesterday.

The thermometer in Marion thermometers yesterday climbed the one of the highest to be recorded in Ohio at 92 degrees. The low temperature to be listed was 70 degrees on the official instrument of Dr. E. H. Raffensperger, government weatherman.

Although citizens of Marion were exposed to the sun's rays during the entire day, no heat prostrations were recorded in the city. Business in local soda fountain and ice houses mounted to a new peak for sales.

BOOK RELIEF

Hundreds of Marion residents sought relief from the heat at Crystal Lake Park bathing pool yesterday afternoon and night. Others in automobiles with top down and windows open toured cool country roads.

Front porches bulged with sweating residents and a few ladies were dozing with easy chairs under trees shaded with easy chairs under trees.

TEMPERATURE RANGE

Temperature in other parts of the state ranged from 80 degrees upward during the day. In Cleveland the mercury mounted the glass to 90 degrees while in Columbus at 3 o'clock yesterday the temperature was 90½ degrees. High in Cincinnati and Toledo was 92 degrees, the same level as in Marion.

In his official weather report, the state weatherman has given no hope for a break in the wave any time today or Friday. Increasing conditions will prevail in Ohio Friday but with not much change in temperature.

FINAL PLEAS MADE

Helen Glaser Murder Case in March of Jury Late Yesterday

CLEVELAND, June 30.—Final plea to the jury in the Helen Glaser murder trial was in progress here this morning, and the case will be in the hands of the jury this afternoon.

Miss Evelyn Cohen, woman prosecutor, made a strong plea, asking that the accused woman be given the death penalty. The state has proven, beyond reasonable doubt, she declared, that it was Mrs. Glaser who shot Ida Glaser, 19-year-old bride of the accused woman's former husband, Joseph.

Mr. Frank P. Heidrich, defense attorney, argued on the other hand that a "reasonable doubt" does exist as to the manner in which the victim met her death.

The girl was found dead in bed the morning of April 22, with a small pistol "loaded" near her heart. The coroner's inquest held that the pistol was loaded and pointed toward the heart. The defense argued that the pistol was loaded and pointed toward the heart.

Heidrich, who is handling the defense of the accused woman for the defense committee, in his argument, said the defense committee believed the pistol was loaded and pointed toward the heart.

HAWAII TURNS OUT TO HONOR ARMY AVIATORS

Social Program of Maitland and Hegenberger Filled with Events

PAY OFFICIAL CALLS

Cable Messages of Congratulations Flood Fliers; One from Coolidge

HONOLULU, June 30.—With all the anxious to honor them, Lieuts. Lester J. Maitland and Albert Hegenberger faced a social program today that may prove more wearisome than their 20-hour flight from Oakland, Calif., to Honolulu.

Hasted, and with their hunger temperance appeared the army airmen started out this morning on a round of official calls. At 9 a.m. the fliers presented themselves to Gen. Edward Lewis, commander of the department of Hawaii. An hour later the aviators officially greeted Admiral John Mc-Donald, naval station commandant.

The transpacific fliers then announced their morning schedule by calling upon Governor General Farrington of the territory of Hawaii. At noon Maitland and Hegenberger were to be honor guests at a community luncheon.

COLLECTOR OF TAXES, Marion

Col. John H. Hoover, of the air service detail in Hawaii, will give a dinner in honor of the fliers tonight.

State guests, representing the official and civilian select of the islands, are invited.

The only other event thus far scheduled is a dinner dance at the Royal
Hawaiian Hotel on the night of July
5. The public will be allowed to attend.

The fliers were overwhelmed today with invitations to social functions but both Maitland and Hegenberger showed no inclination to keep their social calendar limited to essential personal appointments.

Cable messages of congratulation from President Coolidge down to humble well-wishers, swamped the airmen's office today.

In keeping with their refusal to accept a newspaper offer of $12,000 for their personal stories, Maitland and Hegenberger showed no eagerness to capitalize financially their daring 2,400-mile flight.

The only other event thus far scheduled is a dinner dance at the Royal
Hawaiian Hotel on the night of July
5. The public will be allowed to attend.

The outstanding event of the longest nonstop flight record, the modest air men maintained, was their fruitless search for the sandwiches and coffee they had taken with them in the cabin of the big transpacific Fokker. Upon arrival of the plane, the missing provisions were discovered under a bit of canvas.

By this time, however, Maitland and Hegenberger had been without food for nearly 20 hours. The fliers passed lights over the fact that each of their three motor beds, in turn, gave them trouble, and that one of them had exploded bodily in the early morning hours.

The message was received by the three transpacific fliers as they arrived at the airport.

The fliers were welcomed by the people of Hawaii, who had been expecting their arrival.

Bug Fight Being Won By Man; Won't Be Wiped Out

No Insect Pest Has Ever Destroyed Any Form of Plant Life

BY CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, June 20.—Man kind will survive, I tell you! For emphasis Dr. A. L. Quaintance thumped his desk at the department of agriculture.

Some scientists say the human race is doomed.

According to their account, it is waging a losing fight against the bug kingdom.

We're delaying the enemy's advance a little but we're never stopping it for a minute. Victory inevitably must perish eventually upon the insects' banner.

Their farewell to the genus homo will disappear from off the face of this earth in less time.

The belligerent Dr. Quaintance, famous government entomologist, believes otherwise.

At worst the struggle's stalemate, he insists Dr. Quaintance.

He admits we can't exterminate the bugs. A breed of bugs, once established, will hang on, enough to be troublesome, forever, but so long as mankind keeps right on top of those bugs the doctor declares they'll never be anything more than troublesome.

"No insect pest," he points out, "ever has completely destroyed any form of plant life."

"It's been threatened occasionally, he says now—just before we learned how to deal with it, but we always have learned before it was too late. The imperilled plant has been saved and the pest has been controlled—to remain nuisance but not to inherit the earth, by any means."

With all due respect to the learned family, Dr. Quaintance gives less credit to birds than some authorities accord to them, as bug controllers.

To be sure, they devour lots of bugs he recognizes, but so many other considerations enter into the question of insect control that he hardly regards them as a very important factor in the problem's solution.

He looks on parasites as more than enough.

Of various species of flies and wasps which prey on noxious bugs, without doing any harm on their own account, the doctor speaks in the highest terms.

It may seem funny to think of the agriculture department as an importer and breeder of flies, for instance, but that's what it is—the kinds that prey on the European corn borer and the grasshopper and the dangerous beetle and other plant foes, and they eat 'em in trillions.

Now doctor," said I, "you've studied insects all your life. You know their habits, their characters, their psychology."

The doctor nodded, questioningly.

"You're a general, on the side of the human race, in the war against them. Professionally no doubt you hate them. But, speaking personally, do you see in the insect any admirable qualities—like the rattlesnake's gentleness in intent to sound his rattle before striking—traits to be respected even in an enemy?"

"On general principles," replied the doctor, "my feeling toward insects is a feeling of unmitigated hostility, but it's a fact that, in the course of my work

MINE OWNERS THREATEN TO RUN OPEN SHOP

Workers Must Accept Ultimatum by July 15, Operators Declare

COLUMBUS, June 20.—Pending the receipt of official advice of an ultimatum said to have been formulated by the Ohio Coal Operators' Association, officials of the Ohio union miners' organization today withheld comment upon the demand of the operators that union miners immediately resume work at the 1917 wage scale, or face the prospect of reopening of the mines with non-union labor.

The operators announced, following a meeting here late yesterday, that they would submit an offer to the miners to resume operations under the scale of 1917, providing $5 per day for pit men, or 11 cents per ton for breakers; nine cents a ton for shot wall cutting, and 55 cents a ton for loading. Ninety per cent of the mine properties in Ohio were represented at the meeting at which the ultimatum was drafted, the operators claimed.

July 15 was the date fixed in the operators' ultimatum for beginning of union operation of Ohio mines, if the union miners refuse to agree to the demands.

Idle Since April 1.

The miners suspended work April 1, and have been idle since, insisting they would negotiate no wage scale providing less credit to birds than some authorities accord to them, as bug controllers.

To be sure, they devour lots of bugs he recognizes, but so many other considerations enter into the question of insect control that he hardly regards them as a very important factor in the problem's solution.

perienced and exceptionally popular instructor and his young work prior to attending the Culver school has been demonstrating in the course of a post-graduate course.

SCHOOL REUNION HELD IN RICHLAND TOWNSHIP

Seven Former Teachers, 200
Scholars Attend District No.
1 Gathering

Seven former teachers and about 200 former scholars gathered on the lawn at School No. 1, Richland Township last Sunday for a picnic and reunion.
Philip Davis, J. E. Wick and Fred Ritterer gave short talk on the program that followed the serving of sumptuous dinner. W. F. Seaman of Laurel reads "Thus 40 Years Ago" and Dennis Gumpf of Marion gave a historical sketch of the group and an original poem entitled "A Taste to Our Old No. 1".

Among those present were Jerry Ritterer of Clinton and Mrs. Kellie Beamer of Pleasant Township both alumnians who attended the log school house on the site which preceded the present structure and the following former teachers: Mrs. Emma Ohorn, Mrs. Sophie Stark, Mrs. William
P. Ober, Mrs. Clark Hensel, Mrs.
Elmer S. Lander and Jerome T. Tuck.

RICHWOOD WOMAN AND CALEDONIA MAN WED

Caledonia, June 20.—Mrs. Helen Walker left for Richwood yesterday to be in attendance at the wedding of Mrs. Bessie Young to Harold C. Ward of this place, which was solemnized at the bride's home, Richwood, at noon today. Mrs. Young was formerly employed as Home Economics teacher in the Caledonia School.

What They Would Do
A forced landing at sea was regarded as improbable by Byrd. He said the chances are 10 to one against it. Should it be forced to descend, Neale would immediately change the automatic radio signal from "WTF" to "SOS".

Byrd, in his Byrd's last word were that weather conditions were not ideal but that he hoped to make the best of conditions. That he knew what he was talking about had already been shown. His plane entered a dense fog after leaving Bradford, 10 miles from Hillsboro, and has been battling fogs and adverse winds practically ever since.

Field Meet

Daily Proverb—If men will have no care for the future they will soon have sorrow for the present.

New York's 400 wasn't so much. Right out here in Marion we are going to have a 1,000.

The summer weather we predicted was delivered before we got to press yesterday. That's what we call service.

What's absolutely incomprehensible to the most of us is why the government should do so much worrying over a surplus.

Grand Duke Nicholas predicts the early fall of the Russian Soviets. However, it was as a successful commander and not as a prophet that Nick made his reputation.

Those high-paid movie stars should move slowly before refusing to accept that ten per cent cut. Some of them might be forced to go back to their old jobs and $15 a week.

Over in China, bushands are complaining that they are unable to control their wives. To think that it took them all these centuries to discover that!

The Japanese at the Geneva conference have challenged the Americans over there to a ball game on the 4th of July. Despite reported discords, the cause of world disarmament and world peace is not lost yet.

Considering the job he holds, that committee might have known better than to ask Vice President Dawes to participate in any circus stunts during his vacation.

"Girl Poet, Eighteen, Seeks To Turn Prosy Old World into Song," reads a headline in a morning paper. No amateur poetry which has reached our desk has had exactly that effect on us. Far from it.

When the people of the Black Hills country go fishing for trout they bait their hooks with worms because they want to catch fish, not to theorize.

Just as everybody was becoming enthusiastic over transatlantic flights, Bergdorff announced his hope of making one to the United States. Somebody's always trying to take the joy out of living.

This flight of Mrs. Rosika Schwimmer for citizenship, despite her atheistic and pacifist leanings, must be mighty embarrassing to "Uncle Henry" Ford, recalling to the public as it will the Oscar II and its cargo of monkeys and assorted nuts.

Vilma Basky was a half hour late for her wedding, but even in the limited life of a movie marriage, Rod La Rocque will probably grow used to a little thing like that.

It's not for us to criticize, but we have never been able to understand why such hind legs as the kangaroo has were given to an animal having its habitat where flippers are practically unknown.

The estate of Richard Croker is reported to have shrunk $7,000,000, the Florida home appraised at $10,000,000 in 1926 now being valued at $3,000,000 and finding no takers at that. That big gentle zephyr must have blown the water out of the real estate market down there.

Even should it develop that Pola Negri's husband is a real prince, that should not worry him. We Americans are naturally forgiving, and it's hardly probable that a thing like that will be held up against him.

Of course, Washington feels the absence of the president, but this old life of ours has its compensations, and actual residents there do not get a lot of quiet satisfaction out of the fact that congress is adjourned and the senate fishing and smelling committees have temporarily ceased their labors.

Max Winkler, whoever he may be, says that "American funds were an important factor in the defeat of the Central powers during the war and an equally important factor in their rehabilitation." In other words, we helped them both going and coming.

The French government carried the matter of the escape from prison of Editor Baudet to the chamber of deputies and received a vote of confidence by 350 to 185. Still let us not get funny with the French. We also have our silly seasons over here.

The lessons we learn by personal experience in our youth usually abide with us, which makes us think that the Rev. Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, who says that "really to be free and independent is to substitute inward self-control for outward restraint," at some time must have sat down upon a bumble-bee's nest.

Wayne E. Wheeler proposes to run a third presidential ticket in case the two old parties nominate wots. We wouldn't mind were he to do so. It would be interesting to know definitely how much, if any, strength is behind Wayne's talk by means of which he has occupied so conspicuous a place in the affairs of our national and state governments for years.

Another Air Record Established.

At first glance the flight of Lieutenants Maitland and Hegenberger from Oakland to Honolulu may not have appeared exceptionally impressive. The reader is going over the story of the Pacific dash of the army aviators probably is alighted that far longer flights had been made longer alike in distance and in time in the air. The reader possibly may have recalled also that far better time had been made by both Lindbergh and Chamberlin, as it took the army lieutenants twenty-six hours to cover the distance slightly in excess of 2,400 miles. He may have realized in reading, too, that the army plane used was equipped with radio which gave the aviators on the Pacific flight an immense advantage over the two who had previously flown over the widest expanse of the North Atlantic.

But there were two phases of the flight which may not have been considered by the average reader. One is that, although the army plane was equipped with radio by which to call for bearings in the flight and for assistance in case of accident, there were far fewer ships on the Pacific upon which to call than would have been the case in flying over a ship course on the Atlantic. Wednesday eighty-five liners were afloat on the North Atlantic and possibly a hundred freighters equipped with radio. There probably were not a tenth that number in the course of the Pacific plane.

But the chief exploit was that of distance traveled over water. In this respect Maitland and Hegenberger established a record, their dash exceeding that of the two successful North Atlantic fliers by something like 450 miles. Thus it is that American aviators in an American-built machine have accomplished another great aviation record. To the flight of Byrd to the North pole and return; the third-in-the-air flight of Chamberlin; the outstanding flight of Lindbergh, the pioneer, and the distance flight of Chamberlin has been added the distance-over-water record of Maitland and Hegenberger. And Byrd and his three companions are reported well on the way to Paris in the great America.

One can not help but wonder what may be the feelings of the critics of American planes who have been telling us that our planes are but death-traps, fit only for the junk piles. We mean the Colonel Mitchell and his kind. And it would be hard to guess the feelings of the writers who have been telling us we must emulate Europe to know how to produce planes and fliers. And what can be the feeling of our British and French friends as they look upon our recent achievements in the air and consider their recent lamentable failures, failures which are regretted here in America from the bottom of our hearts, but failures just the same? It would be interesting to get the British and French retorts to the views of those who contend that America yet knows little, if anything, of the science of aeronautics.

The Ohio State Journal without its paragraph-dictat is about as thrillingly interesting as would be Hamlet without its youthful prince. It's been over a week since we have had a new recipe for preparing spinach for human consumption.

Much has been offered in print about prohibition, some of it pertinent and some having nothing more to do with the case than "the flowers that bloom in the spring," but nothing more pertinent than the statement of Thomas Nixon Carver that "prohibition has raised wages and speeded up industry." Even the most enthusiastic champion of weiness can not successfully combat this.

NOT YET BUT SOON.The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

Before a prisoner is paroled from most state prisons, he must have outside the walls a "first friend" who will vouch for him with a new suit of clothes and a five-dollar bill; then, if ever, he needs a friend. There is a man in Cleveland who has organized a Voucher club. He does practically all the vouching there is. He makes himself first friend to paroled prisoners. That is service without glamour and without glory. That is the sound friendship of a man who cares.

Gertrude Kaiser, Iowa girl, is only sixteen, but she is a member of the United States championship junior dairy judging team. The milk maid's fame started in song and story. She's come a long way and she's made good. When so many boys and girls, even at sixteen, know what they're about, there's little need of worrying about the future.

Russian high school students are not taught the Russian classics. They do not read Shakespeare, Milton or Byron. But they are familiar with the ballyhoo and misrepresentation of Upton Sinclair. To prey on decent American institutions is merely a hobby with Sinclair. It works in well with the type of propaganda which teaches Russians the philosophy of hate. To neglect the good books of the world to grovel with Sinclair is like chipping to pass up the air and the sunshine and breathe the dust of the alleys.

A secondary relaxation of muscle and sinew is another slim young fellow, known as the "Human Comet." He wears his clothes with gasoline and climbs to the top board 125 feet in the air. Then he hangs himself and hangs downward, a somersault into a pool of water.

There are others who struggle out straight jackets suspended head downward high in the air, high dive on horseback, ride motorcycles through plate glass and leap from moving trains to aeroplanes. Despite the danger of their calling few earn over $5,000 a year.

Thrill making is a dangerous business has been proved by eight fatalities over the country in the past two years. Some die after such feats. One of Broadway's well-known beggars propels himself about in a wheel chair, a twisted and deformed bit of human wreckage. He used to jump right "crams" in a row in a vaudeville act. One night he missed.

Many thrillers are "planted" publicity stunts to ballyhoo a tooth paste or a facial cream, but they rarely click with city editors. A human fly tried for weeks to get into the newspapers by his hazardous acrobatics. He finally slipped and fell eighteen stories to death and made the front pages.

There is a brand of evil-doers who ingeniously enough are always considerate of women. Along Broadway are many purses, pick pockets and nimble-wristed swastiks whose gallantry toward the open sex is traditional. One of the most famous of the subway pickpockets has never in his sin-stained career prolined from women. A noted confidence man was caught as the result of his act of chivalry in protecting a strange woman from insult in a hotel lobby.

Twenty Years Ago.

This day was Sunday.

The Sunday papers carried a story holding that New York was physically the filthiest city in all the country, a distinction which possibly it may yet still claim.

The clothing store of M. H. Underwood, of Caledonia, was burglarized, the burglar entering by breaking the plate glass in the front door with a stone. While inside he exchanged the suit he was wearing for a new suit and coolly leaving the store, said "Good night" to those watching him and disappeared.

In his discarded suit were found a dime and a deposit slip in the name of a Morris man on the Fabey bank of Marion.

Views of Those in Public Eye.

JOHN SARGENT.

John Garibaldi Sargent, United States attorney, was born at Ludlow, Vermont, October 13, 1860. He was admitted to the Vermont bar in 1880, becoming in 1885, state attorney for Windsor county. Sargent was secretary of civil and military affairs of the state from 1900 to 1903, and from 1910 to 1912, the state's attorney general. He was appointed attorney general of the United States by President Coolidge in 1925. He is chairman of the Vermont committee on uniform state laws.

The attorney holds safety lies not so much in law enforcement as in law obedience. He puts it thus:

"We have for a long time regarded with detestation those who knowingly buy stolen goods; have come to think of them as aids and abettors of the thief, because it is they, and they alone, who make the trade of thieving profitable."

"Many of us have as yet failed to see that when we knowingly buy commodities of any kind, traffic in which is forbidden by law, we directly sanction and reward a violation of the law in exactly the same way as does the purchaser of stolen property—by making the violation profitable."

"The law forbids the smuggling into the country of jewels, of

A New Idea In Merchandising Gasoline

Ours is a new method of merchandising gasoline. We sell direct from tank cars to consumers, eliminating the distributors' profit and avoiding the useless expense of operating and maintaining costly and elaborate stations such as dot the landscape everywhere as magnificent evidence of the excessive profits that have been taken.

The old system is costly, top-heavy and a constant source of unnecessary expense to motorists.

Our method of merchandising gasoline usually provokes a price war in an attempt to curtail our sales, as we can only operate at a profit by doing a large volume of business.

If other stations meet our price, after having charged higher prices for years, it proves that they have been over-charging motorists, or that they hope, by taking a loss for a short time, to reduce our sales and thus drive us out of business, when high prices can again be restored.

Here are the facts concerning the price of gasoline. The following wholesale prices are taken from the June 22 issue of the National Petroleum News, the leading trade paper of the oil industry:

There is only a difference of $1\frac{1}{2}$ cents at present market prices between what is known as low test gasoline and high test gasoline.

Stations that charge high prices for high test gasoline take advantage of the motorist who believes that a high price gasoline is better than a low price gasoline.

We sell only 58-60 U. S. Motor Gasoline because we know it is the quality best suited for this season of the year.

High test has the only advantage of easier starting in extremely cold weather, and, while we could sell the high test gasoline for 2 cents more than we are charging for U. S. Motor Gasoline, we do not sell it because experience has taught us that for summer use U. S. Motor Gasoline is the best and that high test gasoline has no advantage over it and frequently results in over-heating and knocking.

Possibly the opening of this station will result in a price war in an attempt to drive us out of Marion. Should this be successful the price of gasoline will go back to the state wide price. We believe the motorists of Marion and Marion County will understand if this condition arises.

What Sleepless Nights Usually Mean

When you have to get up two or three times during the night it's often a sign of bladder trouble. You may or may not have symptoms, such as a steady dull aching back and darting pains in the groin. At any rate, Marabout is guaranteed to help you in a very short time or money back.

You'll feel better after taking one bottle—more energy—and whole nights of sound sleep. It isn't expensive—Heaney-Cooper sells lots of it.—Adv.

Taking Pups for Airing and Delivering Washings Among Tasks of Messengers

Like the professional man, only in look drowsy and tremble with fear somewhat different manner, have the when the telegraph boy mounts the carrier of the telegrams he carries their trade secrets. Few incidents occur.

He should look into the life of a Marion messenger boy, he would find the carrier of the telegrams hasn't an untroubled post, but a life of responsibility and investigation.

Should an investigation be held as to the real work and accomplishments of the subject, it would finally be revealed that the blue or green-suited lad does not always carry the cold and formal business letters, as supposed.

In this city bicycles are the vehicles that carry the boys to their destinations. The lad doesn't linger on the way because he knows that the importance of the message is in speed.

Letters and wire messages are not the many letters and parcels that the messenger is compelled to take as well only things that they are called upon as those of the business nature. The to deliver. Numerous calls are received from the local offices making lads are mediums in which the losing, every day at the local offices, making and happiness when unable to see each other.

Daily are events enacted similar to airing is one of the common deeds of the brave soldier who carried the messenger boy and to carry the family washing to the wash woman and back are daily occurrences.

Motorists' Aids

Another piece of work that the boys called upon to do regularly is to lend a helping hand to the motorist who forgot to fill his gas tank before leaving home. Not many out-of-town trips are taken by the messengers, however.

When not delivering the messages from the office, shopping is often done by the local youths. The order is left at the telegraph office and a short time later the job is completed. The telegraph boys prove a great help in many families.

The telegraph boys declare that telegrams anymore are not the frightening unwanted notes that they once were. Only a few housewives appear to "Buy Burglary Insurance" at Lawler's. —Adv.

F. Shurg, filed an answer in the court of common pleas yesterday through her attorneys, Carhart & Warner.

The answering defendant admits that the will of B. F. Shurg provided that his widow should receive $1,000 annual income from his estate and that in case the revenue falls below that amount sufficient property should be sold to bring the income up to $1,000. The widow asks in her petition that such sale be ordered.

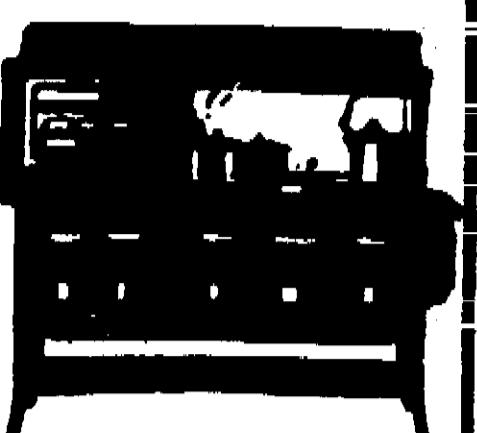

In her answer, Laura Shurg, widow of Frederick A. Shurg, one of the beneficiaries of the will, asks that if the order of sale be issued that a responsible party be named as trustee to carry out the provisions of the will.

HEALTH CAMP TO OPEN HERE NEXT TUESDAY

Twenty-Eight Underprivileged Children To Be Guests of Kiwanis Club

Twenty-eight underprivileged children of Marion are looking anxiously forward to next Tuesday when as guests of the Kiwanis Club they will start a 10-month's vacation as guests of the boys at the fresh air camp on the Owens farm, four miles south of the town, Gowing rd.

While the children are spending their time in anticipation of their vacation, Mrs. Clara Geier, health nurse who has charge of the camp again this year with a corps of workers is busily getting the camp ready for the visitors.

Mr. Chief McFarland with several helpers from each of the three stations were at the camp today, putting tents which will be used as sleeping quarters for the children this summer. With the addition of these tents the camp will have an outdoor shower room.

Wiring Completed

The first chief who has been one of the most active workers in making the station a success since its inauguration several years ago said this morning that the work at the camp had been completed and the plumbing which was tampered with by vandals since last summer had been repaired. Electricity for the camp will be furnished by the C. & M. Electric Co. this year instead of the Ohio Electric Co. She was twice married, her first husband being Fred Schneider. FUNERAL SERVICES HELD FOR CHARLES SCHORR

Cardington, June 30—Funeral services for Charles Schorr were held Wednesday at St. Paul's Lutheran church conducted by Rev. H. W. Weller. Weller assisted by Rev. J. A. Sims. Mr. Schorr passed away Sunday night at 9:30 o'clock at his home northeast of Wadsworth after a week's illness. He was born in Richland Township and was married to Kate Hough Dec. 2, 1926, who died 22 years ago. He had been living the past six years with his mother who preceded him only four days, dying Wednesday, June 22.

He is survived by three sisters: Miss Anna Smith, Ashely; Mrs. Lillian King; and Mrs. Minnie Lichtenberger, Wadsworth and two brothers, Sam Columbus, Henry, Cardington, Fred Denver, Colorado; Hartman, Marengo and Edwin Marion.

BUILDING ACTIVITIES SLUMP DURING MONTH

Only 44 Permits Issued in June for Total of $18,713

Building activities in Marion took a decided slump during the month of June over that of the preceding month according to a check of the building permits in the office of City Clerk Kelker. During the month of June there were 44 permits issued with an estimated valuation of $18,713, while during the month of May the permits issued numbered 50 with an estimated valuation of $67,550.

The building during this month was the lightest of any spring or summer month for several years. There were six permits for dwellings during June from $400 to $1,000. During the month of May there were 22 permits for dwellings with an estimated value of $60,350.

Garages built during the month were 22 in number and the total valuation was given as $2,200. One permit for a filling station was issued during the month. Maxine Wolfe of Plain, who gave the value of the building as $1,000, is constructing the station at the intersection of E. Center and High sts. Permits for seven porches cost approximately $300 and were included in the permits issued during the month. A shed shed to cost $500 was built by the Shuster Lumber company at their plant on N. Greenwood.

According to the advance reports of the secret service at the convention, William B. Peetler, president of the Brotherhood of Engineers, is about to leave here after passing through Wednesday, guaranteeing all deposits at the Cleveland B. & I. Company, both present and future, had virtually depended upon the organization of the brotherhood to advance information regarding the strike.

In order to reinforce the financial activities of the brotherhood, an assessment of $5 per month is planned and official spokesman declared to be collected from members during the next two years. The amount thus obtained it was said, would total approximately $2,000,000 by 1929 and would exceed the offer of Thomas F. Mitten which was accepted to discharge over keeping Ernest Smith in jail. Several valuations have offered to replace Capt. Charles Carter, the mayoralty who held the original kickoff on the ground that there was a lack of mounting the action plane.

Peetler and Mitten will endeavor to collect the amount and to select a new navigator and pilot for a new plane. A date set for the destruction of the flight will also be decided upon.

Elections are to be held on the final day of the convention, not yet set, eight of the spokesman said, but the three trustees may be chosen today when the convention was to consider the reorganization plan.

Members of the family owned her until the house and submitted a pliment.

It's Long Grind for Dempsey As He Trains for Sharkey Battle

BY NORMAN E. BROWN
NOTHING will keep a fighter in perfect trim except fighting.

That is why every boxer after an extended absence from the ring turns himself into a long grueling battle to get into condition for another. This regardless of past record or previous record of the man's past fighters' contests.

That is why Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion of the world, must set himself to a long grueling for the success he expects his meeting with Sharkey July 21.

And if he is serious, he has prayed help of doing a lot back but skipping into his eastern writing camp in sound condition (which, be it noted, he still has much to do).

He has not fought for ten months.

He has not struck a solid blow for a serious intent in that period.

He has not tried to be a well-timed punch on a weaseling fighter protecting himself as he pleased.

He has not forced himself to step gingerly about a squared arena for half an hour ever set to throw his body behind a punch that may spell victory and a new fortune.

So he faces the task of recovering as far as possible his "fight form" as well as his physical form.

Four things are essential of a fighter he is at his best:

He must time his punches perfectly—so that the moment of impact comes at the proper time to get the maximum power behind them and at the right time.

He must find his distance so that his punches hit the mark—and don't fall short or go wild.

Nothing confuses a veteran fighter more than to find well-aimed punches missing the mark. The beginner is accustomed to missing. The veteran is not.

Open Legs Defeat Vets.

He must have the strength in his legs. Many a veteran fighter, champion and ex-champion, has found himself defeated by his legs rather than his opponent's punches.

A few rounds of rapid footwork have left him leggy, on his feet, unable to support the other man's rushes, unable to set himself for his own punches.

And last but not least he must tune up the coordination of his own body, leg and arm muscles to get the maximum power in his blows. This means hours at the punching bag and many a drawn round with sparring partners.

There is no thrill in any of the tasks. It's old stuff. Jim Willard couldn't bring himself to the grueling he trained for. Dempsey couldn't stick to it when he trained for Brennan—and he lost to Big Bill.

Other fighters in other cases have gone to defeat because their failure to enter the training period in earnest.

There are three or four weeks of dreary work ahead of Dempsey. The manner in which he goes through those weeks will be his best tipoff on the probable outcome of the Sharkey fight.

Old's Motors of Toledo, To Again Play Athletics Twin Bill Over Week-End

Team That Beat Marion Earlier in Season To Return Sunday and Monday; Home Run King Comes with Others

PROBABLY the best baseball club to play here so far this season will invade Lincoln Park Sunday and Monday afternoon for two more engagements with the Marion Athletes who will be up against a tough opposition.

Main and Brashears have been working well together since the return of the youthful backstop. Main has allowed only 11 hits the last three games.

Others have also become a scarce article amongst local players.

Best Game of Season

Indications are that Marion baseball fans are in for the two best games seen here so far this season.

The Sunday game will start at 2:30 with the Fourth of July contest being scheduled for the same hour the following day.

CYRUS TEAM FEATS LOCAL LIFERS, 30-24

State Stand on Grid Pact Is Explained

Columbus, June 30.—With Ohio State University was unable to accept Princeton's proposal for a new college agreement for their football game, as yet, it has been explained.

Abandonment of school by the 15-year-old director of football was due to "political logical high ground" of college football. But it could be done suddenly.

When it was announced on June 29 that Princeton and Ohio State might play this year, Coach Bill Roper of the Tigers made a special trip from Princeton to Cambridge, Mass., to see the Ohio State-Timmons game there, and a November after the close of the Princeton season. Roper saw the Buckeyes defeat the Penn 7 to 6.

Ohio State, on the other hand, had opportunity to watch Princeton's game. It was felt here, however, that for Ohio State, it would be more satisfying to play its own game, and Princeton, in a series of hard games, scouted Ohio State, was unable to do so.

Coaches Weller and Roper, in agreement on the matter, Princeton members being busy here, were here to spring to speak at a local gathering. It is quite probable that the two coaches understand why the Buckeyes are going to play here.

The Buckeyes are in the lead in the big race in the West, having participated in the first four games.

It will be a handicap meet for President's Cup. Match play starts Wednesday.

STATE GOES EAST
State University will send a ball team East for the first time this season for a game with the University of Pennsylvania at Philadelphia.

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventures

BY JUDD MUSTIMER LARSON

PEOPLE are funny. Nihi is blaming, and he said we should kill it, so we left the Lost Bag of Trips because he let it down and killed it with clubs and did not stay with his head through the went away without doing anything. He has till he has time to get him by cause the best thing a fella can do is to let go and push him through into the to get away from a crazy man as soon as possible so that we could get him and as he can. He thinks it is cruel to blame him a few for putting the ink hang a snake up without hurting it, but in the garden hose so that we all got it. It isn't cruel to kill it with clubs.

spashed with it. I don't see how he can blame a fella for that, but whatever know you can't be cruel to a snake.

The Lost Bag of Trips came over to the lot where we were playing ball, and he held up two-bits he had to spend, so we didn't do anything to him, and we got five tops and strings and they and Jubilee got out of bed feeling pretty good, and I let him down on the rope in his teeth and put on my shorts, britches and went down and got the milk pail and went out to the barn, and when I had milked the cow and her butter and had given Jubilee a few squirts and went in and strained the milk and fed my face and slid a couple of buttered pancakes in my pants pocket for Jubilee, and then I came out and took the cows out to the pasture, and we caught a pretty good sized snake and took him over to mud turtle pond and stayed till after noon throwing him out into the middle of the pond and chunking rocks and dirt and pieces of bark and stick at him when he would try to swim out.

He wasn't a water snake so he couldn't dive, and finely we made it up to go, and try to catch the Lost Bag of Trips, so I had a string in my pocket and we made a noose and put it around something that did not belong to anyone but to the snake's neck and tied him to a limb bunch, and we were having a pretty good time till Barty wanted to play him there a man came and asked us what we were doing and with the one Hopper was playing with we were doing and we told him we were, and Hopper poked him in the stomach hanging a snake, and I was kinda surprised when he didn't think we were, and he grabbed up all the tops and fangs smart. He said it was cruelty to animals and we could be arrested, so then I asked him what we should do to it strings.

Peter's Adventures

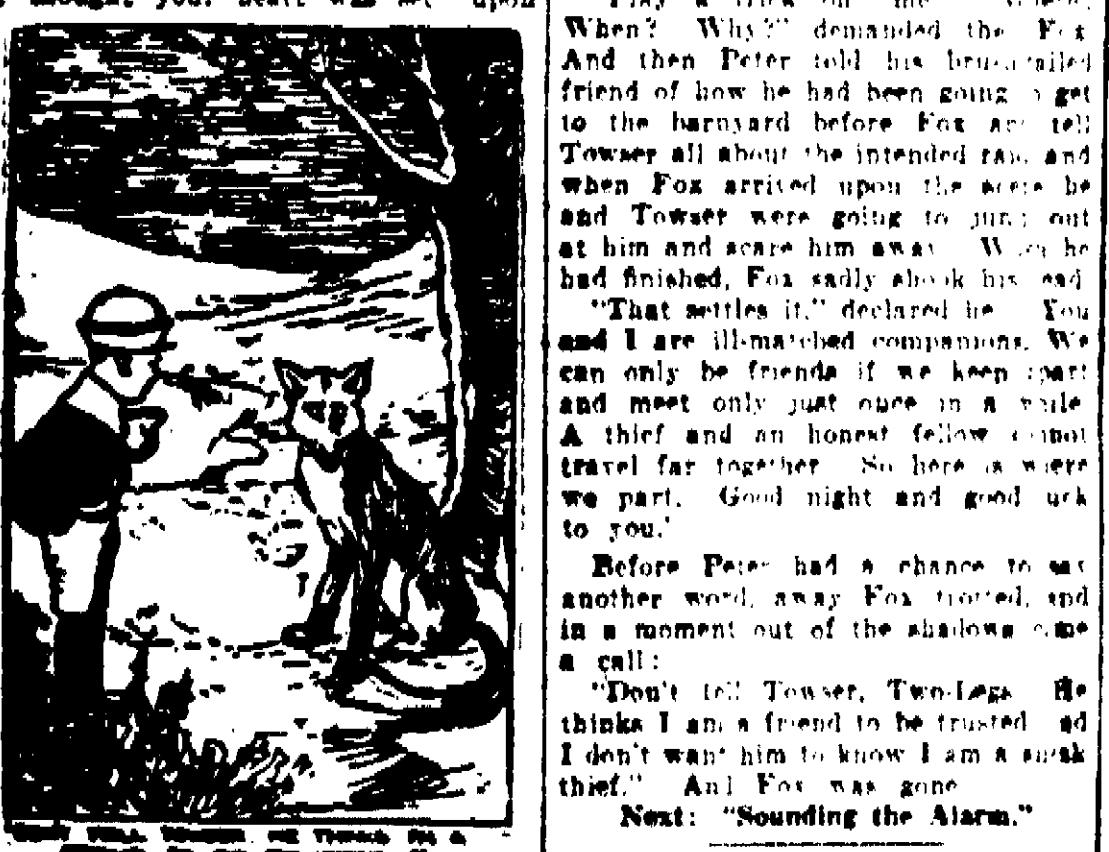

A Story for Boys and Girls

BY FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

ILL-MATCHED COMPANIONS
PETER stopped whistling and waited for the Fox to say something. Cutie stared at the boy for a moment, his long slits of eyes gleaming in the darkness, and when he did speak he didn't say at all what Peter expected to hear.

"Two-Legs, that chicken hump is off!" declared he. "I put my paw down on it!" Fox stamped his front foot upon the ground. "And once having made up my mind, nothing in the world can make me change it!"

"Why? What makes you say that? I thought your heart was set upon saiding the henhouse tonight?" Peter was very much surprised. "Have you heard anything that would make you think you had better not try it?"

For shook his head and looked as if only Fox could look.

"No, I haven't heard anything. That is, nobody has told me except my own common sense. But I have decided that it would be wiser than foolish to take an honest Two-Legs along with me when I am going to steal. It would never do at all. I would not get away with anything, you are perfectly sure of that! If you couldn't save the chickens any other way, you would very likely give one of those rolls of yours. Woof! Woof! Think you have been fooling me all this time, don't you? Well, you haven't—not for one minute. I know what was going on up here, but I let you send little Pucky off to safety. Since the father escaped me, the son might as well, and anyhow, that boy would not have made a mouthful!"

"How did you know it was young Puck?" gasped the boy.

"Recognized his squeak, of course. The minute I heard it," Fox winked. Peter laughed.

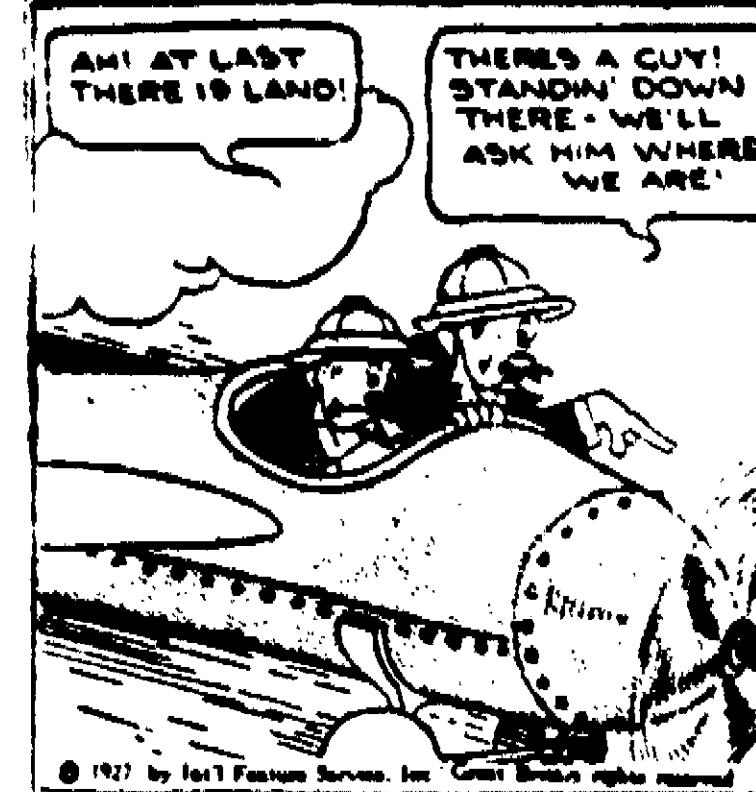

"I don't wonder they say that it takes a wise man to get ahead of a Fox; and you're a good-natured Fox, too. I wonder that you are not angry at me."

PLANS FOR IMPROVING ROAD ARE APPROVED

Compensation and Damage
Claims of $256 and $957
Allowed by Board

Preliminary plans for improvement of the Likens Pole Lane in Marion, Clinton and Grand Prairie Townships were approved by the board of county commissioners yesterday afternoon when a hearing was held to receive claims for compensation and damages from land owners.

Compensation claims totaling $256 and damage claims amounting to $957 were allowed. These amounts are to be paid for land to be appropriated for widening the Pole Lane section of the road.

County Surveyor Leavens was instructed to prepare estimates of the cost and when his report is received the commissioners will meet to pass on assessments. It is likely that the construction work will start this year.

The road improvement is to be four miles in length and will be of macadam construction, 12 feet in width.

A building permit was issued by City Clerk Keller yesterday afternoon to J. V. Cook, 408 Sherman, who will build a coal shed to cost approximately $55.
